[1] Tuesday afternoon 11 Sep. 98.
Sir
I was in hopes of meeting you today at the public library to have had the honor of being introduced to you, as M^{r} Dasdorff informed me yesterday you generally came there in a morning. My stay at Dresden being very short, I beg you'll inform me, by return of the bearer, if this afternoon or tomorrow, it would be agreeable to you to be waited upon. – I am writing sketches, biographical and critical, of the German poets, with select specimens of their works translated into the same measure as the original (a method, I find with pleasure, you have followed in your version of our immortal bard) and I am naturally ambitious to know personally a gentlemen who will make a distinguished appearance in my list of poetical writers. I beg your acceptance of a trifling performance I have lately published, and I remain, Sir
Your obed & hble Servant
B Beresford
Golden Angel.
